

Embedding the Five Priorities of Care for the Dying Person

Course Duration Two days

Course Cost £60 per person to include:
All course materials, refreshments and a light lunch

Target Audience Qualified nursing staff and senior carers within Nursing and Care Homes

Course Aims To provide the knowledge and establish ways of embedding the Five Priorities of Care for the dying person.

Course Information

- Exploration of communication skills that support the well-being of the individual and staff group, and take into consideration any sensory impairment.
- Consideration in regularly reviewing the delivery of care and relevant documentation depending on the individual's abilities and symptom resolve, and recognising when there is a change.
- Recognise symptoms that individuals may be experiencing; other than that of their diagnosed medical condition.

Course Benefits

- This course gives you the opportunity to develop strategies and resources, and to take away End of Life Care tools to be operated within your area of work.
- Be able to recognise the impact that loss has on individuals and how to offer support.
